I am absolutely against it. Air travel is bad enough already, and with the cost-cutting, cramped planes, etc., giving the cell phone junkies an opening will make it intolerable. Most flights aren't that long, and nobody flying on commercial aircraft is so important that a phone call can't wait until they get off the plane.